

Navigating the SRA regulatory landscape for in-house lawyers

In-house legal teams face increasing scrutiny and engagement from the SRA, with new guidance on in-house lawyers' regulatory obligations, and pro-active SRA investigations into complaints.

We can provide a trusted, independent risk and compliance resource, delivering targeted support and training.

Our services

- Training and workshops: Helping you to ensure, and demonstrate, sensitivity to, and awareness of obligations on, key areas of risk:
 - Identifying the client
 - Managing potential conflicts
 - Ethical conduct in litigation
 - In-house lawyers' supervisory obligations
 - Balancing public interest and duties to clients
 - Protecting privilege and reporting obligations
 - Ensuring compliance with restrictions on undertaking reserved legal activities
- Risk and compliance audit: We can undertake independent reviews of your systems and processes to identify potential vulnerabilities.
- Investigation and incident response: We can assist in responding to SRA engagement and are experienced in working with in-house teams to provide comprehensive early responses to SRA engagement to minimise the disruption of regulatory action.

Our credentials

Bevan Brittan's professional regulatory team is immersed in advising GCs and in-house legal teams, including SRA-regulated individuals, on the increasingly complex regulatory, risk and compliance landscape. Our clients include organisations with substantial in-house legal teams serving organisations with high levels of scrutiny and accountability, and complex stakeholder maps.

Our team has many years' experience of advising on SRA compliance and handling SRA investigations and prosecutions. Bevan Brittan gives you access to:

- Sector-leading expertise: Deep insight into the SRA regulatory framework and its application to regulated individuals working in-house.
- A pro-active, tailored approach: Bespoke training and workshop solutions designed for your structures and tailored to anticipate and mitigate risk.
- Cost-effective support: Targeted and proportionate solutions, from a trusted team of lawyers who have acted as advisers to organisations facing the most sensitive challenge and scrutiny.
